A suit, involving some forty thousand dollars, has been for some time pending between the foreign holders of the bills of the Guildhall bank of Vermont, and the Su ety Fund of that State.
On the 14th, Judge Redfield gave his opinion in favor of the bill-holders, on the ground " that the proof before him dir not sustain the alleged fraud of the claimants; and that, with the exception of about $7000 of the claim of Houghton & Co., their claims should be allowed against the Safety Fund-which claims must be substantrated before a commission, to be appointed for the purpose, and that a decree would be made on such commisionar's report from which as

The Railroad speculations of Europe and of the United States, must differ very materially. The mania has increased very rapidly in Great Britain and upon the Contment, on account of the prospect of an immediate increase in the value of the investments, from the productiveness of the works. The railroads of the United States. on the other hand, do not hold out such favorable prospects. Very few of the railroads built in this country, have paid dividends the first year, while those of Great Britain, notwithstanding the immense additional cost, have paid profi a from the start. The population of Great Britain being very dense, and the resources of the country fully de cloped, the business of every new line i nearly as large the first year, as at any time after. In this country it is just the reverse, our railroads become productive only as the country becomes populated ; but he annual increase in the receipts is a very large per cent, and their productiveness is every year becoming g enter and greater. Many roads in the most thickly s tiled sections of the country, not at present paying dividends, must ultimately be large dividend paying inve-tments. There is not a road in the United States, but that is earning more money this, than in any former year, and several that have never jet paid a dividend, are rapidly becoming able to do so. Nearly every road in the country is in good hands, is annually improving in value, and must as business increases, and connections are made between different points, realize a corresponding increase in receipts. It is estimated in Great Britain that there has been within the past year, a gross increase in the revenue of the railways, of about one million pounds sterling. Of this sum searly the whole is a clear additional profit, for this reason, that in nearly all the lines, the running expenses have been economised— This increase of dividends, represents an increase of value on railway stock, equal to £20,000,000 at five per cent, and £25,000,000 at four per cent.

In this country there are about one hundred and thirty million of dollars invested in railways, and the increase in the value of these investments within the past year, has been equal to at least two per cent.

The annual report of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, gives a clear statement of the business of the company, for the past year, and the condition of the property at the close. The company have expended is sums for the accommodation of the coal trade of the road, which is rapidly increasing, and must in a few years be immense. There has been expended for oars, engines. &c , for this trade, $118,863 98, within the past two years. The city of Baltimore six per cent stock has since the last annual report been reduced $20,000, which sum has been set apart as a sinking fund, for the redemption of the million loan, incurred for the construction of the Washington branch; making, with the $15,000 heretolore set apart for the same purpose, and the interest accumulated, the sum of $37,000 amount to two hundred per cent within the past ten years. The increase in receipts from passengers has exceeded that from freight. The company have made very extensive arrangements with the numerous large min ing companies in the vicinity of the road, for the tranion of coal, and it is anticipated that within two years the annual quantity transported, will not be less than 100,000 tons.

The Maryland Mining Company have entered into a contract with the Railroad Company, to transport annually $2,500 tons of coal. Efforts have been made to extend this road to the Ohio river, by some practicable route, to terminate at some important point on that river, but so far they have been unsuccessful. A law was passed by the Legislature of Virginia, at its last session, authorizing the company to extend its work to the Ohio river, to terminate at Wheeling; but the route indicated by that law, was considered so impracticable for any useful purpose, and its other conditions were so enerous, that it was almost unanimously rejected. Efforts have recently been made to extend this road to Pittsburg, Pa., and a convention was a short time since held in Pennsylvania, composed of delegates from the western part of the State, for the purpose of adopting measures to obtain from the Legislature, the passage of a law, authorizing the company to extend its road through their section of the State. It is stated in the last annual report of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, that "the construction of a canal, leading from Cincinnati through the State of Ohio to Lake Eric, has already diverted a very considerable portion of the trade of the valley of the Mississippi Irom Philadelphia to New York. Merchandise has been transported from the latter place, during the present season, to Cincinnati, at a much lower rate than it would have cost to the same point by way of the Pennsylvania canals and the Ohio river. The completion of the railroad from Cincinnati to Sandusky, on Lake Erie, which is now in active progress, must inevitably divert the stream of travel from the great West to New York and Boston and it will scarcely be denied that, when it reaches those cities, the inducements which will be held out to mer-chants in their purchases there, will be quite sufficient to prevent them from going to Philadelphia; whereas, on the other hand if, by the completion of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to Pittsburgh, the travel is drawn towards Baltimore, whatever benefit may result to her, a very large proportion must undoubtedly accrue to Philadelphia. In this particular at least, the interests of the two cities are identified; and, instead of regarding each other with a jealous distrust, they should be found uniting with hearty and untiring energy against the efforts of their northern rivals—New York and Boston."

The loan of six per cent for the purpose of taking stock in the Washington branch road, is now placed at $1,000,000, instead of $985,000, as it was in last year's report stated; the board having ordered that the $15,000 of bonds, which were cancelled, and for which a sinking fund was commenced in October, 1843, should be re stored and placed in a position to accumulate by the quarterly interest.

The debt of Messrs. Barings, now stands at $153,708 95, being $50,000 less than at the date of the last report. The actual resources of the company on the first of October, 1845, were as annexed.

The board have applied twenty thousand dollars of the above amount to the purposes of a sinking fund, according to the resolution announced in the annual report of 1842, for the reimbursement of the loan of a million o d liars contracted for the construction of the Washington branch road. Of the balance they have determined to divide among the stockholders three dollars ($3) on each share of the stock, which will leave a surplus of $34,084, which will be applied to the extinguishment of the debt.

This road is 188 miles long, and originally cost $7,623,-600. In 1843, when the gross receipts amounted to $575,235, the nett receipts were $279 402, and in 1844. the gross receipts amounted to $658,620, and the nett receipts to $346,946, showing that in 1843, the running expenses, &c. amounted to $295,833, and in 1844 t $311.674. The gross receipts for the year ending Oct. 1st, 1845, were $79,983 20 more than for the year previous, while the current expenses are reported to something less.

cess in bringing the organ to an explanation on the tariff It is unnecessary to bring the proofs of Mr. Walker's repeated declarations heretofore in favor of the low water mark of the compromise act-the dead level of a 20 per cent. ad valorem-it would be a supererogation to recur to Col. Polk's reiterated declarations from the stump in Tennessee, corresponding precisely with the compromise 20 per cent standard of Mr. Walker. Father Ritchie, with all that momentous ambiguity of an oracle, in contradiction of an opinion expressed by a "scribbling" correspondent of "one of the Northern papers," from Washington, lately "insinuated" that Mr Walker's views and the President's upon the tariff were coincident, corresponding, uniform, and idenwere coincident, corresponding, uniform, and ideatical; that the President went as far with the idea of a reduction as the Secretary of the Treasury. The conclusion, then, taking into view the known opinions of both the President and his financial minister, as heretofore expressed, was inevitable, that the Executive would recommend the mud-bottom level of a 20 per cent ad valorem, inflexibly operative upon all articles alike. This idea was further sustained by the ambiguous universal promise of "equal protection," in the mystical "Kane letter." What could be more "equal" than an inexorable unitorm 20 per centum? How else than by a uniform imposition are we to have "equal protection? The "Kane letter," if resolvable into anything, which is very doubtful, is only resolvable into the set plus ultra, or ultima thule of the compromise act. But the idea, which, on a former occasion, we mentioned as superceding in the South the mud-level of the compromise act, turns out, by the oracle, to be the true position of the administration, and of Mr. Walker, upon this question of the tariff—a thorough modification, with discriminations for revenue, as contrasted with the Northern (excepting Pennsylvania, which goes the whole figure of the act of '42) democratic idea of a tariff, with incidental discriminations for protection. But hear the priestess of the temple. The organ of last evening favors the country with the following valuable paragraph:

"A corresp-ndent of a northern paper, from this city, speaks of a horizontal briff. We are not advised of there tical; that the President went as far with the idea

"A corresp ndent of a northern paper, from this city, speaks of a horizontal tariff. We are not advised of there being any political economist in this city who advocates such a measure. The anti-protective system is to impose duties for the sake of revenue, but, as some articles will admit of higher duties than others, to discriminate for that purpose, but not for the protection of one private interest at the expense of others."

admit of higher duties than others, to discriminate for that purpose, but not for the protection of one private interest at the expense of others."

The correspondent here referred to is the Herald's correspondent, and the "northern paper" is the New York Herald In a little "boxing bout" with our venerated contemporary of the Union pending the dog-days, Father Ritchie took a solemn oath not to notice the "scribbler" for the Herald any more—However strong the temptation, therefore, to "hit him agin," our venerable papa must abide by his word. We like him for it, and we do most solemnly appeal that "personally so far from having any objections" that Father Ritchie should have the printing of the House, "we should be glad to see it." Because why? For these simple, patriotic considerations, that if any organ-grinder can play to the tune of the resolutions of B3 and '99, it is Father Ritchie; that if any executive amanuensis can follow in the wake of the administration, as its exponent, and not its dictator, (as Blair, it was feared, would be) it is the late faithful old Nestor of the Richmond Enquirer; and because he expects it, and the President expects it, and Virginia expects it, and he ought to have it.

The foregoing paragraph, from the Union, is of great value to the country. The President will recommend a revenue tariff with discriminations not tor protection, but for revenue. For example, if 15 per cent upon Pennsylvania iron will yield a greater amount of revenue than 77 per cent on the principle of a revenue tariff, the 15 per cent on the principle of the higher imposition. And yet that very clause, "some articles will admit of higher duties than others," leaves us floundering again among the inexplicabilities of the "Kane letter". But that clause may be the means of saving Father Ritchie. Iron, on this principle, the Pennsylvanian will argue, will admit of a higher duty than coarse cotton shirrings, taking the advalorem as the standard. Wool, the

LAST WEEK OF THE MASTODON, He CHANGE, Mr Broadway

THE exhibition of thus enormous animal will close after this week Let no one lose the opportunity of seeing this greatest wonder of the age. Thousand have aireed, violeted it, with the greatest adorization. Open till 10 o'clock in the evenues will be derived to meet an economical administration of the government, will be the squaring of the circle in this business. The President is pledged to "equal protection," whatever he may recommend of modification in the impositions upon maximum, or that maximum at which just sufficient revenues will be derived to meet an economical administration of the government, will be the squaring of the circle in this business. The President is pledged to "equal protection," whatever he may recommend of modification in the impositions upon such articles as will bear a higher rate of duty than others. There is no other resource, then, left for the Evecutive, than to propose an equally protective tariff upon the principle of discriminating for revenues, so as that the aggregate receipts shall be just sufficient for an economical administration of the government resources. Nothing, to the satisfaction of that majority in Congress, compounded of the whigs and the democratic tariff men of Pennsylvania and, the North—a majority of which will be found compacted together in behalt of the law of '42—nothing that can be devised among the contending elements for a reduction, will so well answer this majority as the black tariff of the whigs. An abatement of the specific duties upon silks, may lead to an increase of the duties upon tea and coffee. On the revenue principle, these latter duties will have to be increased. A mitigation of the exorbitant minimums upon coarse muslins, on the other hand, by an increase of revenues from increased inhortantons, will lead to a demand for the entire nullification of the duty upon salt. And to a reduction of the bounty upon gunny bags, the hemp growers of Tennessee, Missouri and Kentucky will unquestionably enter the protest of "equal protection."

We infer, in conclusion, from the established presossessions of the President and Secretary Walker, that the Executive purpose (if any thing defiaite at all.), a Revenue Tariff upon the 20 per cent standard, with such oscillations upon certain imports, as will yield the necessary revenues for the expenses of the Government upon the principle of discrimination for revenues, regardless in toto of any protection whatso

We shall have a long session of Congress, but w We shall have a long session of Congress. In which prophesy from past results and present indications, when we predict that the Tariff of '42 will un the gauntlet of a session of six or seven months turation without curtailment, abridgment, or modification. WASHINGTON, Oct 21, 1845. The Tariff-The Cabinet.

We are informed, and our authority is semi-offiial, that at a meeting of the cabinet yesterday, on ne question of the modification of the tariff, there was a palpable and unequivocal division, as follows: For the recommendations in the President's nessage, agreeably to the plan of reduction of Mr. walker, to the lowest revenue standard, with dis-eriminations for revenue exclusively, entirely de-troying the minimums and specific impositions of the act of '42, including the abatement of the 77 per
